Belle Glade Girl—

When a girl is ready to harvest, she is put by men with long knives labeled "machetes". It is then loaded into a wagon equipped with roller tracks. When the wagon is filled with cane it is placed in a train of 5 to 8 wagons and hauled to the loading point. There the grablines of the host lift the contents of the wagon and weigh it. Then it is transferred to the railroad cars which hold 6 wagons of cane.

The loaded car is then taken to the sugar mill. There it is weighed again and then taken to the baling table where it is turned partly on its side and emptied.

From the receiving pit the cane goes to the crushers where the juice is extracted.
